14. FEB. 19
GOVT. OF MYSORE.

Dated Bangalore, the 13th February 1942.

Direct correspondence between the Government of India and Indian States on certain Civil Defence matters.

SIR,

I am directed to state that in order that all enquiries from Indian States regarding Civil Defence matters, whether technical or general, shall be dealt with with the utmost expedition and on a coordinated basis, it has been decided by the Government of India, with the concurrence of His Excellency the Crown Representative, that a special appointment of Under Secretary shall be created immediately in the Civil Defence Department and filled by a Political Officer. It is the intention that, so far as is practicable, all enquiries from, and correspondence with, States on local and technical Civil Defence matters shall be carried on between the Civil Defence Department and the States direct, but it will not be possible to define precisely and comprehensively the subjects on which such direct correspondence may be carried on until some experience has been gained of the working of the new system. For the present, however, it is considered that all important States which have a genuine and legitimate interest in A.R.P. should be authorised to correspond direct with the Civil Defence Department on the following subjects:-

(a) Supply of A.R.P. equipment.
(b) Supply of A.R.P. pamphlets and literature.
(c) Local A.R.P. schemes for towns and factories.

2. I am accordingly to request that, if there is no objection,

objection, future correspondence from the Government of Mysore on the above subjects may kindly be addressed direct to the Secretary to the Government of India, Civil Defence Department.

3. It will be observed that the allocation of vacancies at A.R.P. Courses has not been included among the subjects on which States should correspond direct with the Civil Defence Department. The reason is that it would be easier to make a fair allotment of such vacancies on the receipt of consolidated lists for all States through the Agencies concerned. I am therefore to request that such applications from the Government of Mysore may continue to be addressed to this Residency.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,

A Macaulay

AIR RAID PRECAUTIONS

Subs for perusal
Law Member & Dewan
26/2/42

My Dear Mehta,

I am desired to state that in September last His Highness the Chancellor of the Chamber of Princes addressed the Political Department regarding the question of assistance to States, technical as well as financial, in the matter of A.R.P. The Political Department have now sent a reply to His Highness on the following lines.

2. As regards technical assistance, the Political Department state that circulars and unpriced pamphlets are already being made available to States and information regarding priced publications is also being given. Besides this, technical assistance in various other forms is being given for putting into operation A.R.P. measures in vital factories, obtaining A.R.P. equipment, etc. Steps have also been taken to enable the States to correspond, as far as practicable, direct with the Civil Defence Department of the Government of India for purposes of full co-ordination and technical advice.

3. As regards the proposal that States should be eligible for financial aid on the same basis as Provinces, the Political Department explain that it has been decided by the Government of India that civil defence, as distinguished from actual military defence, is wholly a responsibility of the Provincial authorities both from the point of view of administration and finance. The Central Government has assumed responsibility only for purposes of co-ordination and technical advice. It has accordingly made clear to Provincial authorities that in an emergency like the present they will be expected by the public to concentrate on 'nation-saving' as distinguished from 'nation-building' expenditure and not to allow financial considerations to obstruct or impede measures essential for public safety and protection against the results of enemy action. It is realised however that, in the case of certain Provinces, even after exploring all possible economies in ordinary expenditure and exploiting all new sources of income, the expenditure may prove to be far beyond the Provincial resources. To meet such cases, a proposal is under consideration of the Central Government, under which the Province would receive a grant-in-aid under Section 150 of the Government of India Act, on a graduated scale after the Province has incurred expenditure up to a certain specified limit in each year from Provincial revenues. This limit will be fixed with due regard to the financial capacity of the Province as judged from its revenue position. Thus, it is only after a Province has strained all its resources for civil defence purposes that the question of a grant-in-aid under Section 150 would arise.

4. As regards States, it follows, as in the case of Provinces, that they will be expected to treat civil defence and protection of their population against the results of enemy action as one of their foremost responsibilities in this emergency and to allow no other consideration to interfere with adequate action. As regards financial aid from the Centre, it is not possible to say at present whether it would be beyond the capacity of individual States to take all the civil defence measures necessary without outside aid. Nevertheless, if it is found that in any individual State the magnitude of necessary expenditure on civil defence measures compared to its resources is so great that it is compelled to seek the assistance of His Excellency the Crown Representative, the latter will be prepared to consider any such request on its merits and to determine the form and extent of financial assistance to be given to the State, with due regard to: -

(a) The magnitude of expenditure and the nature of schemes;

(b)

(b) the financial resources of the State, including capital assets and the special efforts made to meet all necessary expenditure from its resources, if necessary by curtailing normal peace-time expenditure; and

(c) the war effort of the State.

5. The Political Department have pointed out in this connection that in British India, the responsibility for carrying out essential A.R.P. measures in vital factories has been imposed on the factories themselves, treating such expenditure as 'working expenses'. Government themselves do not share such expenditure. His Excellency the Crown Representative expects that similar action will be taken in States also.

Yours sincerely,

A Macaulay.

Expenditure on Air Raid Precautions - Allowable deduction for purposes of Income-tax.

The Government have issued the following instructions to the Commissioner of Income-tax on the question whether expenditure incurred by an assessee on Air Raid Precautions in connection with property used for business purposes is an admissible deduction for purposes of income-tax.

The expenditure on additions or alterations made to buildings, plant or machinery against Air Raids will be allowed to be deducted in the compensation of profits for income-tax purposes under the Mysore Income-tax Act V 1923 unless it is clear that these are additions to buildings, plant or machinery that may have a post-war value. In that case, the expenditure is to be treated as capital and depreciation thereon is to be allowed according to the rules.

Expenditure on fees paid to Air Raid Precaution Wardens for lectures on air raid subjects and cost of literature, etc. as also expenditure on whistles, gas masks, etc., are to be treated as allowable deduction in the computation of profits for levying income-tax.
